

TRANSCRIPT PREPARED BY THE CLERK OF THE LEGISLATURE
Transcriber's Office

January 20, 1998 LB 109

Supreme Court is the fountainhead. Now what the Legislature can do, if it chooses, is to take away from the Supreme Court the power to create this uniformity and just let every jurisdiction put together any kind of citation it chooses, and just have chaos in the way complaints are formulated. But, if one of these citations fails to carry an essential element, then that complaint is invalid. It can be quashed, and beyond that it cannot even serve as a basis for a person to be brought to trial. So, if a person is really smart, he or she will not challenge that, and go ahead and let a decision be entered against him or her. Then there's something called a plea in, well, I'm not going to say what it is, but lawyers know. One thing you can indicate, even if you plead guilty, Your Honor, what I pleaded guilty to is not an offense recognized under the law of Nebraska. And if you look at the complaint,...

SPEAKER KRISTENSEN: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...you will see that what I was charged with was not a crime. So even though I pleaded guilty, I pleaded guilty to nothing, and the court would agree and erase the supposed conviction and dismiss that so called charge. That has been done. And attentive lawyers make sure that these complaints are properly drawn and properly filed. I don't think the body is of a mind to change this bill. I have said as many ways as I can think of what I have a concern about. So I will not prolong the discussion on this amendment, but I might have to take one or two of the others in order to complete the record that I want to make.

SPEAKER KRISTENSEN: Senator Brown.

SENATOR BROWN: The pending amendment got some of the most important parts of the bill. And I would just urge everyone to look very carefully in your vote. If this is something that you believe protects individuals, protects people who, by the circumstances of their income, may be forced to live in housing that is rental property, it is my belief that those individuals deserve every kind of protection that we can afford them that their dwellings meet minimum dwelling standards, and if you believe that it is our obligation to provide for the flexibility that allows, within limited circumstances, for the greatest
